COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The highway department has been doing the routine jobs for this time of year. Some of the unpaved roads that have dried off quicker have been scraped and the others will be scraped when they are dry enough to put the grader on. The West Bethel Water System has both-ered some this past week. One small leak was found and fixed by the home owner. In the meantime the meter stopped recording and there might be another small leak but we won't know until the meter is repaired.

Forest fires have caused a great deal of damage in the southern New England states and southern Maine. The good weather these last few weeks has dried things out enough so that the danger of forest and grass fires is present in this area. Anyone desiring to burn anything outdoors should obtain a burning permit from the Fire Chief, Mr. McMillin. There has been one serious fire in town this year and we certainly don't want any more.

The assessors have started the assessing work for this year. If anyone still has a yellow declaration form that hasn't been sent in, then it should be returned at once. If they are not returned at once, then they will be of no value to the assessors.

TWO CHURCHES JOIN OXFORD ASSOCIATION OF CONG'L CHURCHES

When the Oxford Association of Congregational Churches and Ministers convenes for its Annual Spring Meeting, being held this year in Andover on Saturday, April 27, at 2:30, an event of significance will take place, as the churches of West Bethel and Locke Mills become recognized as members of the Association.

On the program during the afternoon Rev. Stanley B. Hyde will speak on the new curriculum being set up for religious education. Mrs. Maxine Scott of Wilton and Rev. William Thompson, Associate Minister of the Conference, will speak on the program of the Council for Lay Life and Work, and the work of the Christian layman in his community.

A supper will be served at 6:00 P. M. for all guests. Although each church is officially represented by its minister and two delegates, the Association encourages as many visitors to attend as possible.

This meeting especially, the Association hopes that a large delegation from each church will be present for the evening session at 7:00. At this time there will be a Service of Recognition for the West Bethel Union Church and the Locke Mills Union Church.

By their own act of petition, each church requested membership in the Oxford Association of Congregational Churches and Ministers. Their petition was accepted and officially voted in the early Spring.

The Service of Recognition on Saturday, April 27, at 7:00 will honor the entering of these two churches into the life and work of the Association. All of the churches in the Association will be represented in the ceremonial procession of Laymen and Ministers as the Service begins.

This is the first time since the Association was organized as such in 1834, that additional churches have been added to the roll of membership.

CARL L. BROWN

Carl L. Brown, president of Citizen Printers Inc., died unexpectedly Friday afternoon shortly after being stricken with a coronary attack at his office.

Mr. Brown, a native of Berlin, N. H., was born July 3, 1893, the son of Leslie and C. Luella Kimball Brown. His education was received in Berlin and Bethel schools and Gould Academy from which he graduated in 1911. He had always been a printer. In 1927 he bought the Oxford County Citizen, weekly newspaper and job printing plant, where he had been employed since 1912. Mr. Brown was a member of Mt. Abram Lodge, IOOF, Bethel Chamber of Commerce, Bethel Methodist Church, and an associate member of the Bethel Area Development Corporation. He was also a local representative of the Salvation Army.

He is survived by his widow, Ruth Mason Brown, whom he married in 1913; and five sons, Edwin L., Stanley L., Donald S., Irving W. and John K., all of Bethel; 15 grandchildren; a great-grandchild; and a cousin, Mrs. Albert Blay, of West Stewartstown, N. H.

Funeral services were held from the Greenleaf funeral home Monday afternoon, Rev. Richard Hamilton officiating. Serving as bearers were the following Odd Fellows: Eugene Buswell, Raymond Tripp, Shirley Chase, Rodney Hanson, Earl Beane, and Earl Hutchinson. Entombment was at Riverside Cemetery.

A Tribute for Our Editor

Carl L. Brown, born in 1893, died on Good Friday.

Inmate with him were the cardinal virtues of truth, honesty and kindness. In fulfilling the precepts that the Lord requires of all men, to do justly, to love mercy and to walk humbly, this worthy editor of ours lived his daily life.

And as he did with his Maker, he did with his fellow men, he went the second mile.

Husky and virile physically, keen and observing mentally, and strong and charitable morally he was a worthwhile man.

In the fifty years of association with the local news-

BETHEL AREA DEVELOPMENT CORP. PROGRAM REVIEWED

Because of some confusion that has arisen during recent months regarding the purposes and activities of the Bethel Area Development Corporation, the Citizen recently asked Dr. John W. Trinward, its President, for a statement on the subject. His report follows:

"As the result of several discussions held at Chamber of Commerce meetings during 1956 and 1957, and to be ready to take advantage of the services of the recently-created Maine Industrial Building Authority, a committee of local businessmen, appointed by the Chamber of Commerce, met on February 11, 1958 and formed a membership corporation to be known as the Bethel Area Development Corporation. Its purposes, as set forth in the Certificate of Organization received from the Attorney General of the State of Maine, are to foster, encourage and assist the location, settlement, resettlement or expansion of industry, paper he learned well the colorful history of his country and state. As none other he knew the people and with sincere praise reported all success and achievement. With muted tolerance he touched lightly our faults and misfortunes.

His Oxford County Citizen is unique and outstanding as a weekly. Comments from its pages are often quoted in the New England press and it is an eagerly awaited messenger of hundreds of away-from Bethel residents and students in far corners of the world.

As a printer Carl had no peer. His excellent proof-reading shamed other newspapers.

Being editor of a popular and decent family weekly, keeping abreast of the changing world, living a contented and hard-working life, serving his church, loving his family and being the best of neighbors gave our esteemed editor a satisfying and worthwhile life. How we will miss him!

Throng of people, sad of heart, made silent tribute and silent prayer at his funeral on Monday.

Reverend Richard Hamilton conducted the simple and dignified rites. The masses of seasonal flowers spoke esteem and homage.

Dear Lord with the sunshine of Truth, the beauty of Love, the power of Gentleness we ask Divine care for the soul of our dear friend.

A Neighbor

The life of a soul on earth lasts beyond his departure. You will always feel that life touching yours, that voice speaking to you, that spirit looking out of other eyes, talking to you in the familiar things he touched, worked with, loved as familiar friends. He lives on in your life and in the lives of all others who knew him.

manufacturing and other business, education or cultural enterprises in the Town of Bethel and its environs. It has all of the usual rights and responsibilities conferred upon legally constituted corporations, and all equity in its net worth rests in the Active Members, in good standing, at any time. As of April 1, 1963, the net worth was approximately $3,000.00.

"From the start, the major concern of the Corporation has been the development of new or expanding business and industry for the Bethel Area although it has, on several occasions, contributed money, manpower and influence to worthy projects only indirectly related to those ultimate purposes.

"The project was the printing and wide-spread distribution of an industrial brochure on the Bethel Area which was based on material gathered by a committee of the Chamber of Commerce during 1955 and 1957. This brochure is still in use, and copies are available for all interested persons.

"During the five years in which the B. A. D. C. has been in existence, it has assisted in the location and subsequent expansion of the Favreau Furniture Rock Plant at West Bethel, the incorporation and development of the Sunday River Skiway in Newry, and the location of a new lumber yard in Bethel. All three of these projects have brought increased payrolls and retail purchasing power to the Bethel Area. During most of the same period, the Corporation has also carried on a quiet but intensive campaign for the development of a new State Park at Grafton Notch in the belief that a development of this sort would be of substantial benefit to this section of the State.

"It has also, from time to time, made cash contributions for community advertising, promotional literature, and projects that had good publicity potential for the Bethel Area; and, for the past three years, it has owned approximately 25 acres of land in the Town of Newry which has been optioned to the Sunday River Skiway Corporation for future expansion.
"Currently, the B. A. D. C. is exerting all possible influence on the 101st Maine Legislature to appropriate funds for the purchase of land at Grafton Notch for the proposed State Park as provided for in Governor Read's Supplementary Budget and in two or three other appropriation bills now being considered by the State's lawmakers at Augusta. It is also working on a project for the construction and installation of more signs directing visitors to points of scenic and recreational interest in the Bethel Area, and it is cooperating with the Bethel Chamber of Commerce on a project of community-wide interest that will be announced in the near future.
"In conclusion, I would like to say that, although the B. A. D. C. is proud of its accomplishments to date, we are not unaware of the fact that an organization cannot rest on its achievements, but must constantly move forward. Through our Board of Directors and the several committees appointed by them, we are on the watch at all times for projects and prospects that might have some economic benefit for the Bethel Area, and we will always be receptive to any suggestions along this line that any interested citizens might care to pass along to us.
"I sincerely appreciate the opportunity given me by the Bethel Citizen for this review of the purposes and projects of the B. A. D. C."

The Christian journey is one of progressive stages of growth—just as with an ear of corn there is "first the blade, then the ear, after that the full corn in the ear." no static condition for a Christian.
It is vitally important for the Christian to receive ample spiritual food in the form of Bible reading, prayer, and fellowship. Each of us needs to make frequent and honest evaluation of his progress concerning his growth in Christlikeness.

PRAYER: Dear Lord, help us to look unto Jesus, who is the author and finisher of our faith. This day grant us growth in likeness to Him that our hearts may be like His and our spirits in harmony with Thy will. We pray in His name. Amen.

BOY SCOUTS
We had our meeting over the Community Rooms in our usual meeting place, after several weeks at the Congregational Church.

This was one of the most interesting meetings we have had this year. Mr. Clemons showed us a film about Telstar and answered any questions we had.

We discussed "Scout Camp" and slips of needed articles were passed out.

"Little Hawk" of Sunset Farm

Head man at Sunset Farm, Bethel, is Little Hawk 11398, a Registered Morgan Stallion owned by Norman and Phyllis Dock.

Little Hawk arrived in Beth-el in the late winter of 1962 during one of the coldest days of the year. In true Morgan fashion, he accepted his new headquarters calmly - even though just a short time before, he had known nothing but the much warmer climate of Florida. "Hawk" stands 16 hands, high, weighs approximately 1100 lbs., and is blood bay in color. He has sired about 30 foals in the South, many of whom are making names for themselves in show circles. Four of the five broodmares at Sunset Farm await the arrival of foals by Little Hawk this spring. The fifth mare, Oreland Hi-Time, on Monday presented the Docks with a beautiful brown filly, Sunset Hi-Darling, by Arcand Don-darling, who is owned by Ore-land Farms, West Newbury, Mass. Hi-Darling's brother, Sunset Pegasus, better known as Gus, is rapidly growing as a yearling.

The history of the Morgan Horse is fascinating and un-iquely American. Justin Mor-gan was a mingling Master in Vermont, and, unable to collect money for a debt, accepted two young colts for his pay. He was able to sell the larger of the two quickly, but was left with the little one, whom he called Figure. Figure was loaned to a neighbor to be used in hauling logs. Surprisingly enough, this colt soon proved to be a minia-ture Paul Bunyon. Just about 14 hands and weighing 900 pounds, this sturdy little bay horse soon proved that he could outpull, outwalk, and outrun horses of greater size and sup-

Mr. and Mrs. Glenwood Ben-net of Oquossoc visited his father, Archie Bennett, and family, Thursday.

Cameron Howard and Billy Hooper of Colchuck spent the week end with their grand-father, Eben Cameron.

The weather is very cold and cloudy with rain and snow predicted by weathermen. A lot of people went to Ab-bott Brook to see the deer Sun-day. One car that passed had a smoking net on top of it.

Justin Morgan, as he soon be-came known, had to work hard for his oats, and at first the Vermont neighbors thought it would be great sport to pit his strength against horses of greater size. Imagine their cha-grin when this big-little horse pulled logs in three short pulls that a 1200 pound horse had been unable to budge. Chal-lenged to road races, Justin had them eating his dust. Respect for this hard working little horse with the wonderful dis-position grew, and with it the demand for his services. Soon it became evident that no mat-ter what type mare he was bred to, the produce invariably re-sembled him; although Justin lived over 160 years ago, this propensity still exists, and a horse bred to a Morgan still produces a foal with his stamp. To the student of genetics, he is known as a mutant or sport.

Regardless of scientific classification, the Morgan horse remains the same; gen-tle enough for a child to han-dle, with strength and spirit to carry a large man. There is a Morgan for every need - from slightly under 14 hands to slightly over 16 hands. He will take you on a long trail ride and come home fresh; show with pride in the ring and usu-ally bring home the ribbons; jump or hunt; carry the family for a spin in the buggy; or work in the fields or woods in heavy harness with equal ap-robment.

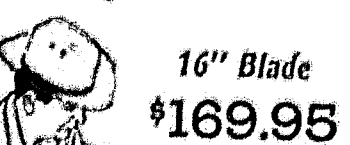

Known as the versatility breed, the Morgan is still growing in popularity and de-mand. To one who has ever owned a Morgan, he is never satisfied with anything less!

Our Trip to Key West

The following is an account of a trip to Key West taken by Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Blake and Mr. and Mrs. Estes Yates who are spending the winter at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

March 31st came in like a lion and it sure looked like a miserable rainy day. But as we had made plans and the sandwich stuffing and other things such as fruit turnovers, etc., were waiting in the refrigerator we took the chance and started for Key West. Breathing a prayer the good Lord would hold the rain over till Monday, we pulled out of the yard at exactly 6 A. M. Sunday morning. We had only gone a few miles when we ran into a light sprinkle but we did not let that worry us. We were off for a days ride — one had "Tums" with him — another pain pills, still another one wished he or she had something they didn't. Just before we got to the Airport our chauffeur Peggy says "What's that?" We all looked and I said "That's an opossum." The first one I ever saw only in a picture but I knew what it was. He was a small one — traveling in circles in the field close to the road. They are a queer looking animal — light tan or grey in color and resemble a rat. We watched him make three or four circles and each time he came closer to the road so we left him to his circles and drove on so we at least would not run over him. Later on we saw one someone had run into and killed. It always seems too bad to run over the wild animals.

It was early so the traffic was light while we drove down thru Miami. A beautiful place with all its boats and big places. I believe Arthur Godfrey, Ed Sullivan and Ted Mack are among the big movie people that spend their winters there. Miami I think can be noted higher for her pink houses than Fort Lauderdale can. We followed route 1 which goes from Fort Kent in Maine thru Fort Lauderdale and Miami to the end of the keys, Key West. Peggy had made a days swap with a lady worker at the store and Joe has Sundays off so we didn't have to worry any there. Of course Blake, Estes and yours truly have every day off. Route 1 took us thru Mongrove swamp to Key Largo which is the last of the Keys. The road was a nice one and a canal ran along each side of it. A big pipe followed along the side of the road that we think carried water to the Keys. The pipe was 16 or more inches thru.

From the coast of southern Florida to Key Largo we began going over bridge after bridge. As we came home we tried to keep count of them which was 40 or 42. One was seven miles long. What a bridge! Some of them had names but I cannot tell them. We would cross a bridge then perhaps there would be a strip of road built right up thru the water — then another bridge. They were all built of cement and it sure must have taken lots of time as well as cement. A lot of the way we had the Gulf of Mexico on our right and the Atlantic Ocean on our left. Where the road was built up thru the water the bridge had been dug out of the ocean. People all along the way were fishing from the bridge, both white and colored and there were men, women, and children. How they could stand it was a mystery as the wind blew so hard. We stopped once and got out of the car to hammer up our legs and it was all we could do to stand up against the wind. At Key Largo we began to see Bougainvillea, Hibiscus and Oleander bushes everywhere. Were they ever beautiful. Oleanders in light pink — white and deep deep pink ones. While the Bougainvillea were deep purple and dark red. We passed several nurseries where these plants were for sale. We stopped at "John's Nursery" and purchased one to take north. "John" was a one-armed man, very pleasant to meet, and it seemed quite evident this was his way of making a living. Peggy took some pictures but they won't show up in the pictures in all their beauty as we saw them.

Key Largo was quite a large town with schools, stores, motels, service stations, etc. The houses were of the older type with quite a lot of new type ones going up. It was interesting to see where these new ones were being built. As first the dirt had to be dug up out of the swamp lands to build the houses on — that leaves a canal making the place where the house sits look like an island. There was more or less civilization all along the way, only where the bridges were. There you could look each side of the road as far as the eye could see and all there was to see was that beautiful green water. A very light green but lovely. Many of the houses were set up on posts and the car would be parked under the house. No doubt the people felt with their house on posts they still would be safe in case of high water. It was marvelous how they could build that seven mile bridge between Greyhound Key and Duck Key.

When we got back to Miami, we followed A1A up along the coast by all the big beautiful been a long time since breakfast. There were young folks in swimming there — also some on water skis for us to watch. While we were there their two shore tour trains circled the lot where we were. Each train was full of people off to see the sights. It was a 14 mile trip — taking 1½ hours for a dollar bill for adults. We didn't feel we had the time for the ride but wished we had. The Naval Air Station at Key West played an important part in the ride but wished we had. This is a very large air base close beside the highway. But people are forbidden to take any pictures and there is no place where people can stop to look at it. It sure looked like it was already and waiting to meet any undesirable visitors that wanted to try coming in very close. There was lots of boys stationed at a smaller base a little farther north. We could see the cannon tall in a row and pointing toward Cuba.

About half way down in the forenoon the sun came out and it was sunny and nice but still windy all the time we were at Key West. But after we left for home it was different. We ran into shower after shower and they were wet ones too. They seemed to come in streaks. We hit a shower then seem to run out of it and hit a streak of nice bright sunshine and the road would be all dry. Next thing it would be raining so hard the wipers could hardly take care of it.

When we got back to Miami, we followed A1A up along the coast by all the big beautiful motel. I wish I could remember the names of all the motels but that I cannot do. It's a wonder how so many motels can get the business to keep them on a paying basis but they claim they have had a wonderful winter. We pulled in home at exactly 5:30 p. m. feeling it had been a day well spent even though it had been a long one. Tums — pain pills, etc., helped a long but even at that we had had more or less aches and pains. We had covered 367.9 miles; each one an enjoyable one. In our days travel we saw only one dog and the Opossum. Looked for the Opossum as we came home but he had decided which way he had wanted to go and had gone. I only wish the dogs were as few on our Avenue as they were on our trip. Here everyone and his uncle have from one to a half dozen and all they do is run and howl. Especially at night. What a medley.

The people that live here the year round say 1962 and 63 have been the coldest in ten years. It certainly has been a wonderful experience to spend the winter in the "Sunshine State" although March brought us more sunshine than any other month since we arrived Oct. 20, 1962.

We are about one mile from Brow and International Airport so we get to see and hear all the different planes there are from the very little to the big jets. April 20th will no doubt find us on our way back to the good old State of Maine — Mrs. Eva Yates, 2721 SW 13 Ave., Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

New Palts, N. Y., Independent and Times: "A blouse factory.... moved to Carolina where it reopened and hired non-Union help. A complaint was filed with the government and recently a decision was handed down by a federal court giving the company a choice of two alternatives. They could remove their plant back to Philadelphia and rehire their former employees or they could rehire their former employees in Philadelphia and move them down to their new plant in Carolina. How our representatives in Congress could ever have sat around and allowed legislation to pass which would permit this kind of nonage, we'll never know."
